SHADES OF CHARACTER.

OR THE INFANT PILORIM. OR THE INFANT PIGGRIM.

BY ANNE WOODROFFE, author of "Michael Kemp." In two volumes. R. Carter & Brothers.

"A charming book, full of deep, true, and glowing sentiment, with lively glimpses of character, pen-portraits and sketches, which keep the interest ever alive, and withal wise instruction is so happily blended that the pleasure of the book is only equalled by its profit. It is a better book then "The Wide, Wide World," which has been so widely and justly popular, and we are sure that those who read this will be glad that we have called their attention to it."—

THE LOST SENSES: DEAFNESS AND BLIND NESS. By Dr. Kitto.

"This is a work of great interest, from one of the most earned and accomplished writers of the age, revealing the mysteries of the world in which those live who have been leprived of the sense of sight or hearing. Ever since its boyhood, for more than thirty years, Dr. Kitto has bassed a life of great activity as a scholar, in a state of the nost intense deafness to which any living creature can be utbjected. His account of himself, and of his discriminating remarks on the condition of the blind, (James Mitchell, aura Bridgeman, and others,) are replete with profound hought on the interesting phenomenon presented in the progress of their mental training."—Christian Observer.
